

Real-Time Jobsite Analytics with Prophix

Analyze your job-level data

Labor shortages in construction are nearing record highs. And companies need to remain agile to ensure projects are completed successfully and within budget.

To succeed in today's market, contractors need real-time jobsite data to proactively manage their costs, plan for future labor needs, and meet quality standards.

Prophix brings your data to life, leading to better analysis and more accurate projections.

Interactive Dashboards

Customized for visual insights into the metrics you need most

With interactive Dashboards from Prophix, everyone - from your executives to your project managers - can access your financial data and KPIs to identify at-risk projects. Monitor your daily progress with real-time visual analytics. Compare your actuals to your budget by any dimension, such as hours worked, raw material usage, or total costs by work order.

Automated Reports

Track variances, employee costs, and labor hours

Understand your data from the bottom up by deep diving into your work-in-progress (WIP) reports. Centralize your accounts receivables, accounts payable, and billings in one place for easy analysis. Prophix's easy-to-use interface allows you to drill down, slice, and dice your job-cost data.

Direct Integrations with Multiple Systems

Rely on a single version of the truth

Centralize your financial data and sync your project job-cost information with your accounting. With a single source of the truth, your team is always working with the most up-to-date cost information, preventing cost over-runs, reworks, and project delays.

Empower Your Project Managers With:

- Visibility into their jobs
- Automated workflows
- Ad-Hoc analysis to quickly retrieve information
- Leading indicators that signal staffing shortages
